Biography

A New York Times bestselling author of 42 books, including the Baseball Genius trilogy, co-authored with baseball legend Derek Jeter; former NFL defensive end; and former FOX Sports broadcaster, Tim has more than 30 years of experience advising clients on complex legal and business matters. He focuses on energy; real property tax; engineering, procurement, and construction (EPC); intellectual property; and national insurance coverage litigation and has played a pivotal role in expanding the firm's client base and strengthening its presence in these sectors.

As a lead relationship manager for many of the firm's largest energy and utility clients, including numerous Fortune 500 companies, Tim represents electric power generators, oil and gas producers and pipeline operators, electric utilities, and energy developers. He has led the firm's integration into multidisciplinary deal teams with national law firms on the acquisition and development of power generation assets, including nuclear, hydroelectric, coal, natural gas, solar, and wind facilities. Tim also works closely with major manufacturers, high-tech companies, financial institutions, and international conglomerates to integrate the firm's full range of legal services into their ongoing operations and strategic initiatives.

Beyond his legal practice, Tim is widely recognized as a passionate advocate for adolescent literacy. He has visited schools throughout the United States to encourage students to discover the joy of reading, sharing his belief that books help young people develop greater kindness, empathy, and understanding.
